

NEBRASKA WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY

REQUEST FOR EXEMPTION TO THE NWU RESIDENCY POLICY

The Nebraska Wesleyan University Residency Policy is as follows:

As a residential campus, it is the residency policy of Nebraska Wesleyan University that undergraduate students reside in approved on-campus living units for three years or six semesters. All first-year students must live in University-administered residential facilities. Students in their third through six semesters who are members of sororities or fraternities may reside in Greek houses as meeting the criteria for approved residential facilities.

Students may request an exemption to this policy if they live with parents/guardians (as defined by Section 30-220917 of the Nebraska Probate Code) within 30 miles of the Nebraska Wesleyan campus; have reached their 21st birthday prior to the start of the fall semester; live with a spouse; have a dependent child; are enrolled for fewer than 12 credit hours per semester as a part-time student; health issues, or other extreme conditions.

If a student's living arrangements are in violation of the residency policy, the student will be in breach of the Code of Student Conduct and will be subject to disciplinary action. Violation of this policy does not excuse the financial obligation to the University.

Approved by the NWU Board of Governors
March 2001 (Revised, December 2002)

This policy has been established by the Nebraska Wesleyan University Board of Governors to support students' academic success and persistence. The residential experience is an essential part of Nebraska Wesleyan's undergraduate program; exemptions are granted only in rare cases. Students who request an exemption must be aware that failure to follow the policy or the process for requesting an exemption will have consequences.

It is your responsibility to read this entire packet and seek clarification if needed. Nebraska Wesleyan will expect you to have read and to understand the policy, the exemption process, and your responsibilities as they relate to both.

Who is the exemption process for?

Students of Nebraska Wesleyan University must live on-campus during the first six semesters (3 years) of their collegiate career. However, Residential Education does realize that some students may have unique circumstances, which may qualify them for an exemption. The exemption request process is intended to provide an avenue for those students who have not completed their six semesters but fall under one or more of the categories listed below:

- Are married or in a documented domestic partnership
- Have a dependent child or children
- Have turned 21 before the first day of the fall semester
- Will live with their parent/s or a legal guardian within 30 miles of campus (as measured by Mapquest) in the primary family residence, not a secondary location used for remote work, etc. Please note that the appropriate legal jurisdiction appoints a legal guardian to act on behalf of the student in place of parents. The legal documentation will be requested for verification.

Who is the exemption process not intended for?

The exemption process is generally not intended for students who:

- Dislike their room, roommate, residence hall, or on-campus living in general
- Have mobility, visual, hearing, or mental/emotional disabilities
- Have medical conditions such as asthma or allergies
- Have dietary concerns or are on special diets
- Want to live with a sibling or family friend
- Parents bought a house or condo and want the student to live in it
- Already signed a lease for an off-campus house, apartment, condo, etc.
- Have problems or concerns that need to be addressed but have not sought out staff assistance
- Are looking to simply save money

There are many avenues besides moving off-campus for students to address the above concerns, including talking with the Residential Education staff, the Coordinator of Services for Students with Disabilities, Financial Aid staff, etc. Students are expected to explore all possible avenues before requesting an exemption to the University housing requirement.

NEBRASKA WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY HOUSING EXEMPTION APPLICATION

As a residential, liberal arts institution, Nebraska Wesleyan University has a three-year (or six-semester) residency requirement. NWU administers a process to allow exemptions to the NWU Residency Policy. These decisions are made in an objective, fair, and balanced way with the University's core value of personal attention to students. The decision made by the committee is final. There are no appeals. Late applications will not be considered (please refer to the next page for deadline information).

Students wishing to request an exemption to the NWU Residency Policy must carefully complete the information in this document, attach appropriate documentation and any additional required information and return it to the Residential Education Office. It is strongly encouraged that the student named on the application is the one that completes the form (not a parent, friend, or another interested party).
